

The Most Holy Trinity

June 15, 2014

When I was a child, the mystery of a God who is three-in-one was explained by that commonly used (if somewhat inaccurate) symbol, a three-leaf clover. Since then, many people have attempted to put the reality of Trinity into words that try to explain: Lover, Beloved, Love Outpoured or Source, Wellspring, and Fountain, as well as the more common expression of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

Still another approach is to stand in front of a mirror and see yourself as someone's child, someone's parent, and someone's spouse all at the same time—and yet see one person standing there.

These examples begin to tell us something of the Trinitarian mystery, but they cannot contain the whole of it. God simply is, and the closest we can come

TODAY'S READINGS

Ex 34:4b-6, 8-9

2 Cor 13:11-13

to God's essence is to talk about God's relationship in and of God's self.

But words have their limits. Is there something in our own experience where God reveals a little of this mystery? Why is it that we reach out for others, yearn for love, or seek God in prayer?

Genesis tells us we're created in God's image. If God is relational; then we must be as well. We are created to be in relationship, to know ourselves as connected. The New Testament is filled with that language: Jesus is our brother; we are adopted children of God. We are to love one another as God loves us. We are to become one in God.

In the experience of love and connectedness and in the experience of being part of God's family, we will come to know the mystery of God a little more clearly.

Recognize you have a nametag: Child of God. Realize how much God loves you. Decide to use your skills for him. What can you and you alone do?

Reconoce que tienes una etiqueta: Hijo de Dios. Date cuenta de los mucho que Dios te ama. Decídete a utilizar tus capacidades para su gloria. ¿Cuántas cosas puedes tú hacer de manera única?

Everyone has been given the ability to do something that can make an eternal difference to God's Kingdom. As the late Ethel Waters loved to say, "God don't make no junk! You and what you do counts. Ask God to help you discover what God wants you to do. And when he shows you, you're ready to become an instrument he can play to bless you and others.

A cada quien se nos ha otorgado la capacidad de hacer ciertas cosas que pueden hacer una diferencia eternal para el reino de Dios. Como la encantaba decir al gran Ethel Waters. "Dios no hace basura!" No somos basura. Cada uno contamos. Pídele a Dios que te ayude a descubrir qué es lo que quiere de tí. Y cuando te lo hag aver, estarás listo para convertirte en un instrument que él tocará para bendición tuya y de muchos otros.

Why do we have eucharistic devotions?

Q When I was young, we never had eucharistic devotions. Why are they so popular now?

Prior to the Second Vatican Council, many Catholics found solid food for their spiritual lives in eucharistic devotions, which include visiting the Blessed Sacrament (eucharistic adoration), attending Forty Hours devotion, and assisting at Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

However, as the modern liturgical movement began picking up steam, scholars and theologians began questioning the amount of energy and attention going toward eucharistic devotion. They urged us to focus our spirituality more clearly on the Mass—the action of the sacred liturgy and the Eucharist itself—and to understand that all eucharistic devotions outside of the sacred liturgy are meant to direct us back to the action of the Mass, the eucharistic sacrifice, and its high point of Communion.

The drop-off in eucharistic devotions after Vatican II can be positively understood as an attempt to take the insights of liturgical reform seriously and to develop a more liturgical piety. At the same time, the resurgence of eucharistic adoration is a worthy retrieval of a beloved practice that both scholars and the faithful understand as complementing a full, conscious, and active participation in the sacred liturgy that is the “source and summit” of our lives.
